News, Feature Stories, & Commentary

Max Impact releases new original song and video, "American Airman"

by Master Sgt. Eric Sullivan

9/15/2015 - Washington, D.C. -- The U.S. Air Force Band's Max Impact has made unique contributions to our Airman culture, writing career field-specific songs for the Honor Guard ("Stand") and Air Force Special Operations ("Send Me"). However, for their next project, the members of the band wanted to broaden the scope of their message. The result of this desire for force-wide inclusivity is the song "American Airman," which was premiered at the Outstanding Airmen of the Year banquet at this year's Air Force Association convention.

U.S. Air Force Band to tour New England

by Master Sgt. Eric Sullivan

9/30/2015 - Washington, D.C. --As fall approaches, so too does the annual Concert Band and Singing Sergeants fall tour. Starting Oct. 16, the Band will travel from Massachusetts through New York and on to Vermont, giving a full concert each day, and a few other performances along the way. The full details of our performances, including venues and ticketing (free, as always!) information can be found on The U.S. Air Force Band's website calendar page, which you can find by clicking here.

Air Force Band Chamber Series back in full swing!

by Technical Sgt. Kaitlin Taylor

9/30/2015 - Washington, D.C. -- Join us this fall for the return of The U.S. Air Force Band's Chamber Players Series! Throughout the season, members from musical groups in the Air Force Band will break into smaller ensembles to perform in chamber music settings. So what exactly makes this series different from other performances? At a Chamber Players Series concert, you're likely to encounter a more intimate setting with an eclectic mix of genres and styles. You'll hear virtuosic classical pieces, arrangements of works old and new, jazz combos, woodwind ensembles, and on and on!
